Pramerica

The challenge

Property investment management business The Pramerica Group (part of Prudential Financial Inc.), asked us to plan and implement the integration of two of their Trafalgar Square offices into one single location. The aim was to enhance working practices and communication, but key to the project was the erection of a “Chinese Wall” - essential to the integrity of the business. The very large floor plate of the offices meant taking particular care to meet the tolerances for a high-speed CAT 6 cable infrastructure and the fact that the building’s landlord dictated the type of air conditioning installed presented us with further challenges in meeting the cooling requirements of the new IT system.

Our solution

Pramerica already worked with robust IT systems but they recognised the need to increase capacity and future-proof the systems. That would accommodate their growth over the coming years. After close consultation with key personnel at Pramerica, we developed a plan to design and build a new computer room fitted with server racks, patching frame and a new network infrastructure. We also designed their meeting rooms and fitted them with full AV presentation equipment including 52-inch flat screens, interactive whiteboards and video conferencing. An Information screen was also installed in the reception area.

The result

Pramerica now benefits from a functional, future-proofed office and meeting room environment.

Our client said:

“The fact that your team remained consistent throughout the entire project meant everyone knew exactly what was expected, and this provided us with a seamless delivery which was achieved on time and within budget. The whole process was professionally controlled and, more importantly, enjoyable.”

Dennis Chatterton, Chief Administration Officer Pramerica
